AMUSEMENT NOTES.

Phil Ott's Comedians Begin Engagement This Evening.

With the coming of Phil Ott's Comedians there will be things doing every instant from rise to fall of curtain, with changes of program each day.

The engagement is for three days, commencing to-night with the rollicking musical farce, "The Man and the Mummy," to be followed by "The Boston Belle" and "The Millionaire Kid." There's just a thread of plot in each of these, enough to create a tangle of complicated situations in which Phil Ott and his clever supporting company keep their audiences in continuous roars of laughter.

These are the kind of shows that our best theatregoers have been demanding for years past, but which are very hard to supply except at high prices, but here we have the real article maintaining all the high standards at prices within the reach of all. A big show at bargain counter prices.

Secure seats at once so you may enjoy the best.

"Billy, the Kid," Next Friday.

"Billy, the Kid," the great Western play, which will be seen here at the opera house on Friday, Nov. 19, while melodramatic, is consistent and tells a story that is full of interest, having for its climax incidents and situations that are exceptionally dramatic. The comedy element is furnished by a good natured Irishman, a fine type of old Southern colonel and his colored orderly. The story of the play opens on a home divide of a big New Mexico ranch. Here are living the hero, his mother, who, thinking that her first husband is dead, has married a second time, and his stepfather. The hero is a lad full of life, who is at that age when the sensational appeals, and he has decided to become a bandit. The home life is ideal, until one day the shadow creeps across the threshold in the coming of Mrs. Wright's first husband, who, driven from the East by his misdeeds, by accident finds the wife he deserted and who believed him dead. Danvers tries to persuade her to assist him in a new crime, the abduction of certain deeds belonging to her second husband, and, finding that she would rather tell her husband the entire truth than do so, plans the diabolical plot of making Billy, his own son, a thief and outlaw. By the aid of liquor, he succeeds in this, but even then he does not get possession of the coveted papers, even though he murders both Wright and his wife, and being found almost red-handed by Billy, who takes an oath to avenge their deaths. Billy becomes an outlaw in reality, and there is a reward upon his head, for the second act finds him at the head of a band, the most feared man in the territory. Many are the traps laid for him, but he escapes them all and returns to the East to lead an honest and God-fearing life, accompanied by the girl he has loved from childhood. The love interest that is developed in the telling of the story is exceedingly strong, and the types which are introduced are taken from life and well and cleverly drawn.

Forced into Exile.

Wm. Upchurch of Glen Oak, Okla., was an exile from home. Mountain air, he thought, would cure a frightful lung trouble, but that had defied all remedies for two years. After six months he returned, death dogging his steps. "Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery," he writes, "and after taking six bottles I am as well as ever." It saves thousands yearly from desperate lung diseases. Infallible for coughs and colds, it dispels hoarseness and sore throat, cures grip, bronchitis, hemorrhages, asthmas, croup, whooping cough, etc. and $1.00, trial bottle free, guaranteed by Red Cross Pharmacy.

GRANITEVILLE.

The regular meeting of Summit lodge, No. 397, N. E. O. F., will be held in Miles' hall Tuesday evening, Nov. 16, at 7:30 sharp. Let every member be present, as important business is to be transacted. The ladies of the degree team are asked to be on hand for practice.

RANDOLPH

Miss Minnie Davis of Norwich has been the guest of Mrs. E. T. Salisbury for several days.

Dr. Rumrill, who is slowly improving from his late illness, is at Arthur Judah's in South Stratford.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Trerice are with their daughter, Mrs. Edwin Scott, for a few days in Barre.

Miss Josephine Emery has returned from a two weeks' visit upon her cousins, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Barber, in Barre.

Carl Edminister is recovering from a serious attack of rheumatism, which has confined him to the house for six weeks.

C. O. Osha is now prepared to do plumbing and install heating apparatus, and can be found at his garage on South Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Walworth have been entertaining their nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Hewitt of Meeker, Col., the past week.

Mrs. J. F. Tewksbury was in Northfield Sunday to see her sister, Mrs. Frank Gold, who is slowly recovering from a long illness with typhoid fever.

Fred Jerd, who has been seriously ill with pneumonia, is now improving. Miss Lilla Jerd, his cousin, a trained nurse from the sanatorium, has been caring for him.

Dr. and Mrs. Eaton have been entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Danforth of Reading, Mass., for several days previous to Tuesday, when they left for their home.

Mrs. Emily Stockwell of Rochester, who has been passing a week with friends in town, went to Northfield Falls the last of the week to visit her son, K. P. Stockwell.

Mrs. Ellen Young and her brother, Albert Ray, who have been for several weeks in Barre as the guests of Mrs. K. W. Morse, have returned and are now at their home on Merchant's Row.

Miss Ethel Newton, who has for the past ten years done very acceptable work in the office of The Herald and News, has gone to Barre to take a position as an associate editor in the office of the Barre Times. Her place in the office here is taken by Miss Helen Wedgwood.

H. J. Noble has purchased the Lyman Rix place on Central street for $3,000, and on Monday, November 22, an auction will be held, at the home of all farming tools and other personal property. Mrs. Rix will remain in the place till spring.

The Rev. J. Wallace Chesbro of Paris, Maine, preached two very acceptable sermons on Sunday before the Federated church. Mr. Chesbro comes as a candidate for the vacant pastorate, but as yet there has been no action taken by the church.

A very enjoyable musical program was given at the grange on Saturday night, which was under the direction of Miss Lettie Bailey. Selections were given by a male quartet, a mixed quartet and a brass band quartet, all of which were greatly enjoyed.

It is understood that Howard Childley, who was formerly a resident here, was ordained to the diaconate at the church in the Central Congregational church at Brooklyn last week and will at once assume the position of assistant pastor under Dr. Cadman.

Mrs. Lucius Goodhart accompanied her guests of a month, Mrs. Elsie Weare and daughter, Dorothy, to their home in Long Island, where she will remain with her sister, Mrs. O. E. Greene, who resides in Glen Cove, till after Christmas. Miss Sadie Fifield was in Bethel over Sunday with her sister, Mrs. Lou Whitney.

Mrs. J. B. Adams was recently surprised by a visit of nine members of the choir at Randolph Center, of which she has until recently been leader, and was presented a handsome gold watch, with her initials in monogram on one of the outer cases, while the inner case had this inscription: "From the church at Randolph Center, November 8, 1909." Mr. Adams had found out the secret and had arranged for ice cream and cake, which was served to the party.

The annual meeting of district No. 7, I. O. O. F., will be held with Randolph lodge, No. 48, in this village Tuesday evening, with the following program: Meeting opened by Randolph lodge, No. 48; address of welcome, D. H. Morse; response, D. D. Howe; exemplification of first degree, Vermont lodge, No. 2, Montpelier; criticisms by Grand Master F. E. Perry of Brattleboro; exemplification of second degree, Biawatha lodge, No. 20, Barre; criticisms; banquet; reports from lodges; exemplification of secret work by grand officers; remarks by grand officers and others; closing exercises by Randolph lodge.

How Joseph Pulitzer First Became an Editor.

William Brown Meloney's article in the November American Magazine about Joseph Pulitzer, the editor and proprietor of the New York World, is a profoundly significant story of what persistence and brains can accomplish. The following excerpt from the article is merely an incident in the story of a human life that can but inspire everyone who reads its history:

"When Mr. Pulitzer returned from Europe in the early winter, he decided to carve out the future in St. Louis. The Evening Dispatch was on its last legs. Its only asset was that it was a Press franchise. Unable to find a purchaser at private sale the proprietors finally offered it at public auction on December 9, 1879, and Mr. Pulitzer bought it for $2,500.

"When the Dispatch's new owner examined his purchase the following morning he found it even worse than he had anticipated. There wasn't a roll of paper on hand and not so much as a bushel of coal. The presses were practically useless, but by pressing into service everything within reach and making it as possible to produce that evening a tremendous edition of 1,000 copies.

"After the first day on the Dispatch Mr. Pulitzer realized that for him to succeed there must be a consolidation with a paper which possessed a plant at least. He took the Evening Post aboard and the evening of December 12, 1879, was marked in St. Louis by the appearance of the first issue of the Post-Dispatch.

"The circulation of the Post-Dispatch swelled and swelled. The circulation was the pulse of the people to Joseph Pulitzer. The people wanted his kind of a newspaper or they wouldn't buy it. Circulation has been the watchword of Mr. Pulitzer's newspaper career.

"Your paper isn't worth a hang unless people read it," he has said a thousand times to editors. "You must make them read it to make them do things."

NO MORE DISTRESS FROM THE STOMACH

All Misery From Dyspepsia, Gas, Indigestion and Heartburn Vanishes and You Will Feel Fine in Five Minutes.

Every family here ought to keep some Diapiesin in the house, as any one of you may have an attack of indigestion or stomach trouble at any time, day or night.

This harmless preparation will digest anything you eat and overcome a distressed, out-of-order stomach five minutes afterwards.

If your meals don't tempt you, or what little you do eat seems to fill you, or lays like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of indigestion.

Ask your pharmacist for a 50-cent case of Diapiesin and take a little just as soon as you can. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, nausea, debilitating headaches, dizziness or intestinal griping. This will all go, and, besides, there will be no sour food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Diapiesin is a certain cure for out-of-order stomachs, because it prevents fermentation and takes hold of your food and digests it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there.

Relief in five minutes from all stomach misery is at any drug store, waiting for you.

These large 50-cent cases contain more than sufficient to cure almost any chronic case of dyspepsia, indigestion or any other stomach trouble.

MAGAZINE REVIEW

Why I Left The Woman's Club.

In these days of suffragist furore, the story of a former club-woman, told in Woman's Home Companion for November, is particularly interesting.

This woman has taken a prominent part in club work. The following story of a club election shows why she resigned in disgust.

"Never so long as I live will I forget that election day! Precinct workers and ward heelers may employ less refined methods, but certainly not less effective. The opposition lost. Delegate after delegate cast a vote opposed to her sense of right and wrong, yes, and her own wishes, because she lacked the courage of her convictions, because she was afraid of a woman who said 'I will rule at any cost.'"

"The closing of the polls was marked by scenes that would have been funny, if, to the earnest club-woman, they had not been so pathetic. As one of the tellers I had full benefit of all that happened. I saw hysterical women weep on the neck of our defeated candidate who had herself well in hand. I heard members accuse each other of treachery—and worse. I saw husbands come and take their disheveled and tearful wives home in cabs. And I heard the successful candidate say with teeth almost bared:

"I'll teach the women of ——— to interfere with my plans!"

"No successful political leader of a graft-cursed municipality ever settled election accounts more systematically than did Mrs. Smith. Every plum went to her supporters. No member of the opposition received the slightest recognition. The party whip snapped on the air at each announcement of a new appointment."

Votes for Women in Denver.

"It was a decided mistake to give women the right of the ballot," says a woman politician of Denver in Woman's Home Companion for November. "But now that they have it, in my belief it is as much the duty of a woman to exercise the right as it is for her to observe her religious duties or to take proper care of her home. The average woman is better than the average man. At least that is my observation. The average woman politician is as bad as the average man politician—only she is worse." If the rank and file of women would join in one concerted movement to unseat both the professional man and the professional woman politician, then the right of franchise vested in women would prove a boon of inestimable value.

"Like many another woman, I entered politics with the idea of purifying the political atmosphere. Since then it has been a constant struggle on my part to keep my skirts clean. It is much the same thing as a woman marrying a man to reform him. In nine cases out of ten he draws her down to his own level instead of being lifted to hers.

"Women, generally speaking, vote to please the men. There are those who will take issue with this statement, but it is nevertheless true. Perhaps it may be different after the women are better educated in political affairs, if that time should ever come, but under existing conditions the women vote as the men suggest. Left to themselves and unaided by the men, the woman vote would be chaotic. We wouldn't know where we stood in an election till after the votes were all in, because women are influenced by all manner of things the ordinary mortal would not reckon with."

GOLD DUST will take the grime and smut, grease and dirt from your pots and pans in a twinkling, leaving them as clean as when new

GOLD DUST is so far ahead of soap for cleaning pots and pans, that the woman who does not use it is really doing about twice as much work as necessary. The soap merely cleans off the surface, and does not dig deep after the germs of decay which accumulate on pots, pans and kettles which are in constant use.

GOLD DUST does more than clean—it goes to the very heart of things, kills every germ and sterilizes your cooking utensils. It makes them sanitariously clean and safe.

GOLD DUST does the work in just half the time that it can be done with soap or any other cleansers.

GOLD DUST is a vegetable oil soap in powdered form which starts to work the moment it strikes the water; it cleans quickly, easily and thoroughly.

"Let the GOLD DUST Do your work"
